Compliant and Coordinated - Improving Bikeability Bookings in Gloucestershire

South Gloucestershire council's Bikeability team runs cycle training for more than 100 schools across the county - helping provide children with the skills and confidence they need to ride safely on the road.

As part of its work, the Bikeability team employs more than 20 instructors, delivering training courses to more than 4,000 children every year.

The Challenge

The client had been using an automated system to handle course bookings for many years. When the Bikeability team began planning for the introduction of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) rules in 2018, they realised that the existing system simply wasn't compliant, and they needed an alternative.

With the GDPR deadline looming, they went searching for a new system that could effectively handle the bookings and manage the administration in a GDPR-compliant manner.

The Solution

After looking at a range of solutions, they discovered Coordinate Sport – it's fully compliant with the GDPR guidelines, and provides all the features they needed to replace the old booking system, in addition to some other tools to support the scheduling.

The Bikeability team made the switch to Coordinate Sport ahead of the GDPR deadline and haven't looked back. In addition to handling course bookings, they now use the system to effectively manage the instructors for courses across the region.
